The following statement shows the comparative difference in the amounts of loans on the first of May, 1856, and May 1st, 1857; "ter as the last, would break the connection · slso the amount of reduction of loans from January 1st to May 1st, 1857; also the amount of circulation redeemed from January 1st to May 1st, 1857. And also the original capital of the Branch, and the amount of its surplus fund. Altogether it is a most interesting and otween Mobile and New Orleans and the satisfactory exhibit, showing, ability, prudence and efficiency in the management of the In-REDUCTION OF LOANS FROM MAY, 1856, to MAY, 1857

Capital of the Branch paid in Surplus Fund, profits undivided The above exhibit is equally creditable to the Bank and the community who have been its customers. It appears that the loans have hours of each day in the telegraph office, rebeen reduced over one quarter of a million ceiving our reports, and yet we never look at from the amount due the Bank one year ago; the "machine" without a feeling bordering that the Bank has called in since the first day upon awe. The Magnetic Telegraph is a subof January last, of the large sum which then was in the hands of our business men, $375,- more wonderful does it become. Sitting in 000. In the same period, the Bank has re- the office nightly, and receiving communicadeemed her circulation to the amount of $104,-734. All this has been done in the period of four months. That our merchants have sustained this severe curtailment of their regular facilities of doing business, without serious embarrassment, is the strongest evidence of their financial strength and ability. The loans of the Branch have constituted twothirds of the Bank accommodations enjoyed by the community. That nearly five-sixths of these loans could be returned to the Bank in the space of four months-without any resources to supply the drain but their own pockets-without any serious embarrassment to a single individual debtor, is the highest testimony that can be given of the soundness and safety of our entire business community. old Bank, will be called in and paid, making the entire amount abstracted from the active pernatural agencies, and will never become a means of the community, $454,000. This is common thing to us. It ever will appear a an amount that few communities, even in older and wealthier States of the size of Evansville, could liquidate in so short a period. without suffering serious pecuniary distress.

by the old Bank, there has been no substitute to supply the vacuum she has been creating in the currency. The Free Banks were, before the process began, extended to the proper limits of their means, and could, therefore grant no additional favors. The new Bank is not yet in operation; and the private association of Messrs. Rathbone & Co., was designed only for a collecting and exchange agency to preserve ad interim the correspon dence of the old Bank. The money collected by the old Bank has been gathered into her vault, and is now held there, ready to be used in redeeming her circulation as it may come in, and to be paid over to her stockholders when the division shall be made. She has now on hand, in her vaults, enough to meet her whole circulation, and pay her stockholders the original par amount of their stock:and from her future collections, she will realize a surplus fund for the stockolders of about 50 per cent. This is, indeed, a most success ful settlement of the affairs of an institution that has passed through all the financial vicissitudes of the last twenty years. The directors may confidently challenge a comparison with any similar institution that has terminated in its career in the country. The exhibit shows, in a conclusive manne the power of the system of Banking under which the old bank operated, to combine and multiply the pecuniary resources of the community. On an actual capital of $152,000, and her surplus profits, she loaned $450,000: that is she, by her credit, multiplied every dollar of her capital by three, and gave the community the use of three dollars of currency for every one it had before. As her capital was, in a great measure, subscribed or obtained from abroad, it may be said, in estimating the advantages of the Bank to the community, that she created-by her establishment in the State-nearly the whole aggregate amount of her loans, for the use and benefit of our citizens. The Bank has been richly paid for the benefits she has conferred. On the other hand, though the commercial community have paid large profits to the Bank, they have been better and more cheaply accommodated than they could have been in any other way. The mutual benefits have been the legitimate results of the system. The same advantages can be continued by the new Bank, founded upon the same basis and principles, if it shall be as ably and prudently managed; and those who are acquainted with the managers of the new Bank, know that they are worthy successors of the old Board.

During this rapid collection of her debts,

A WONDER .- No matter how familiar we may be with the telegraph, it never ceases to be a subject of wonder. We spend several ject for reflection, and the more we reflect, the tions often from two extreme points of the continent-at one moment comes a despatch from Halifax, and the next, one flashes from New Orleans, telling us of thinge transpiring in the same instant, at those distant placesit seems almost as if man had been partially endowed by science with the divine attrib utes of omnipresence. The wildest dreams of old, of the magicians' power, did not exceed what is to us an every-day reality .-When we sit by the side of the operator, and listen to the clickings of a rapid conversation carried on by him with another, hundreds o miles off, with the case and rapidity of a talk at the fire side, the wonder grows, and no familiarity with the operation and its astonishing results, can ever make us cease to wonder. It is a grand, mysterious product of road will be built." Right Mr. Goodscience, that seems like the conjuration of su- | win. wonder "past finding out." When the submarine cable shall be laid and in operation. despatches will be received here from London, perhaps, three or four hours in advance of the time of making the diurnal revolutions of the earth, and the degrees of longitade, sensible realities to us, to be counted on the dials of our watches and clocks.

Most Shocking Corruption. The Chicago authorities have discovered a startling system of corruption existing among certain officials in that city. The investigation has disclosed the following facts before the Grand Jury: When men were out of money they have got Justices of the Peace to give them warrants to arrest certain girls. These warrants have been taken and the girls arrested under them. Sometimes they would be allowed to escape on the payment of a large fee; sometimes they would be brought before the Justices of the Peace and fined largely, and a commitment ordered in default. The girls would then have to raise the money as bist they could, sometimes by levying black mail themselves upon clerks in stores and banks who had previously vis-

Thousands of dollars have been collected in the shape of black mail by public officers from these prostitutes, and it was one of the great desideratums heretofore, in getting on the police, to have a free ticket to houses of ill fame; and policemen have been in the habit of lending their stars to their friends for the evening; and some men pretending to be respectable in that city, and connected with the press, have actually stolen these stars to get their free tickets.

DANGER OF HOOPS .- The New York Tribune of the 27th, says:

A pretty young girl residing at No. 163 Laurens street, while sitting by her fireside on Sunday evening, was nearly burned to death by her dress catching fire. She wore hoops of the most ample dimensions, and over them a dress of white muslin. A door opening suddenly inflated her balloon-like robe, and carried it against the grate, when it ignited, and instantly wrapping her in flames. With much presence of mind, she sprang into a bath, and turned the fancet; before the fire was extinguished her back and the lower part of her person were shockingly burned. Her friends conveyed her to the City Hospital, where but slight hopes are entertained of her recovery.

AGE AND DEBILITY. As old age comes creeping on, it brings with it man attendant infirmities. Loss of appetite and weakness impair the health, and want of activity makes the mind discontented and unhappy. In cases where old age adds its influence, it is almost impossible to add vigor and health, and although many remedies have been tried, all have failed, until BERHAVE'S HOLLAND BITTERS were known and used. In every case where they have been employed, they have invariably given strength and restored the appetite. They have become a great agent for this alone, and are used by many people who are suffering from loss of appetite and general debility. In cases of long standing chronic diseases, they act as a charm, invigorating the system thus giving nature another opportunity to repair physical injuries. See advertisement in another column.
